

Making Zines

Creating texts for classroom projects using written and visual text

Oide Creativity, in collaboration with Sarah Maria Griffin, presents a two-part online elective workshop, open to all teachers.

This workshop offers participants an opportunity to:

- engage in a zine-making* workshop, using ‘six things to say about...’ as a framework for the chosen topic
- create a text using words and images on paper or in digital format
- discuss and reflect on the use of zine-making to support structuring and producing texts in the classroom
- experience practical and creative methodologies that may be used in professional classroom practice (including CBAs)
- consider possibilities for their own creative writing.

*A zine is a self-published document that covers a wide range of topics and offers the opportunity to share opinions, knowledge, understanding and experience of a topic either in print or digital format. Zines can be as simple or as complex as the maker wishes and are an accessible way to support story-telling and sharing.

Dates	Times	Venue
Wednesday 17 th and 24 th April, 2024	7:00 p.m. – 8:30 p.m. on both dates	Online via Zoom

Sarah Maria Griffin is a writer, poet and zinester. She holds a degree in English, Media and Cultural Studies from Dun Laoghaire IADT and an MA in Creative Writing from NUI Galway. She won a 2017 European Science Fiction Award and was the writer-in-residence at Maynooth University (2018- 2019).
